Summary of Possible Legacy Projects on the Clarkston Campus

Financial Considerations

- Students approved an additional $5.00 per credit hour per quarter (maximum of $50 per quarter).
 - $4.00 per credit will go toward future building projects in Clarkston.
 - $1.00 per credit will be set aside for operational costs (staffing, maintenance of new student space).
- At the end of the loan period on the Walla Walla and Clarkston campuses, students would vote to continue, discontinue, or redirect this extra $5.00 per credit building fee.
- This money will be added to the $4 per credit already being collected for the Workforce & Business Building.
- Based on this new revenue source, a loan could be secured so a new project could be initiated at the Clarkston Campus.
- Students can select a number of smaller projects or one large project.

Current Projects & Future Projects

The Clarkston Class of 2016 can be proud that they have initiated the next legacy project(s). As was the case with the Nursing Building and the New Workforce & Business Building, Clarkston students were asked to come along side of other funding sources to complete these projects, which combined instructional space and student space. Clarkston students now have the opportunity to invest in 100% student space and services. Without a new student-approved fee, these and other student legacy building ideas would have to wait until the new Workforce & Business Building is paid off. Here are some of the initial ideas that have been proposed.

- Improved space for the Tutor & Learning Center.
- Improved space, equipment and staffing of the Fitness Center.
- Building a Student Activities Center (similar to the Walla Walla campus).
- Improved office and working space for ASB Leaders.

- Hiring of secretarial help for ASB & other student programs.
- Other ideas to be determined by future students.
